Craft project: Instructions and patterns for making flexagons. Flexagons are folded paper polygons that have the neat feature of changing faces as they are 'flexed'.

Intermediate level. Very, very, VERY addictive!. You can use any rectangle to make this, I am just using printer paper. You'll need the paper to be a 1:2 ratio, so if yours isn't, fold it in half.

To make a flexagon you only need some paper, a template, scissors, and glue. With careful folding, you can make your own flexagon and impress your friends with your new geometric toy. Making flexagons is not only educational, but rather fun as well.
